24. The challenges in Machine Learning are to find the data set to train the model and to know which model is best for the problem that we're solving.