23. Regression analysis is Statistic method that model Relationship between dependent Variable and independent Variable. In data science, we use regression analysis to predict the numberical of value best on theire Variable.