31. k in k-means algorithms refers to the number of clusters that we will use to divide the dataset into when fiting the model.